

Diversity and Anti-Discrimination Policy

1. Preamble

1.1. Aim and purpose of the policy

The PIERER Mobility Group places a significant emphasis on ensuring that all employees are treated with fairness and utmost respect. The diversity and uniqueness of our employees are the engine that drives the performance and innovative strength of the PIERER Mobility Group. We value the diversity that is reflected in the origin, gender, nationality, age, physical limitations, culture, religion, language, and ideas of the employees. Our corporate culture is based on welcoming, respecting and valuing all colleagues. In this environment, all employees should have the opportunity for success and well-being. This Diversity and Anti-Discrimination Policy (“Policy”) provides a global framework that defines how we want to encourage diversity within the Group and how the Group prevents, recognizes and responds to all forms of discrimination and harassment.

1.2. Scope

This Policy applies to all employees, managers and board members worldwide. It also applies to all legal entities, offices, and other workplaces of the company. For the purposes of this Policy, the term workplaces also includes work-related settings or contexts which employees visit or in which they participate as part of their work, e.g. sports events or celebrations, brand launches, photo or video shoots, work-related travel or transport activities, as well as all other places or settings in which the PIERER Mobility Group is commercially active.

Harassment and discrimination can also occur in digital environments, including e-mail and various electronic communication platforms and channels. This Policy applies irrespective of the communication medium. Additionally, it may be supplemented by local policies that establish further prerequisites or distinct procedures for conducting investigations. It is imperative to interpret this Policy in alignment with the relevant local laws, encompassing local labor laws, anti-harassment regulations or anti-discrimination statutes. In cases where the content of this Policy contradicts applicable and mandatory local laws or legal regulations, the latter shall take precedence within the respective jurisdiction.

2. Policy

2.1. Content of the policy

We firmly believe that all employees have the right to work in an environment that is safe, fair and respectful, fostering equal opportunities while prohibiting harassment, bullying and discrimination. Colleagues can unlock their full potential, skills, creativity, and talents in an environment that is both positive and conducive to professional growth.

PIERER Mobility Group's Code of Conduct clearly states that it values and promotes the diversity of its employees. The Code of Conduct also prohibits all forms of harassment, bullying and discrimination within the workplace or in any other work-related context. This strict prohibition applies universally, regardless of the source of the harassment, bullying or discrimination and the target. A non-exhaustive list of examples illustrating actions that may contravene this Policy can be found in point 2.2 below.

Any employee found to have clearly breached this Policy should anticipate appropriate corrective and/or disciplinary action to be taken aligning with local legislation. These measures may include coaching, verbal or written warnings, demotion, suspension, termination of contract or immediate dismissal.

2.2. Definitions

Discrimination

An unobjective, unjustifiable refusal to offer equal treatment or equal opportunity in relation to work and employment conditions or privileges. This includes, but not exclusively, a violation of the principle of equal treatment and equal opportunity in relation to recruitment, dismissal, promotion, disciplinary action, training or remuneration.

Among other situations, discrimination arises when the unequal treatment is based on the following, proscribed characteristics:

- nationality, skin colour, ethnicity or nationality
- gender, sexual orientation
- religion
- age
- worldview, culture
- state of health or
- any other aspects covered by local legislation.

This list is not exhaustive.

Bullying

Psychological violence defined by the repeated and regular, predominantly mental bullying, tormenting and hurting of an individual by any type of group or individual.

Typical acts of mobbing include:

- humiliations
- spreading false statements of fact
- assignment of meaningless tasks
- other forms of abuse
- threats of violence
- social exclusion
- continued, unreasonable criticism of a person or his or her actions that amounts to tyranny or inhumane, reckless treatment.

Harassment

Conduct that negatively affects or is intended to negatively affect the dignity of a person and is unwelcome, inappropriate or offensive to the person concerned.

Harassment may include the following:

- snide remarks, inappropriate nicknames, slurs, inappropriate jokes, inappropriate tricks, mocking or insults;
- creating, sharing or publishing derogatory or in some other way inappropriate written content, pictures, electronic messages, videos or pieces of music;
- threatening or intimidating comments or behaviours and
- nonverbal behaviours, including intimidation, stalking or inappropriate staring that is threatening or may be perceived as threatening for another person

Sexual harassment Conduct within the sexual sphere that negatively affects or is intended to negatively affect the dignity of a person, and is unwelcome, inappropriate or offensive to the person concerned; and

- creates or is intended to create an intimidating, hostile or humiliating working environment for the person concerned; or
- the situation where the person concerned rejects or tolerates conduct within the sexual sphere on the part of the employer or from line managers or colleagues that is explicitly or implicitly made the basis for a decision that has impacts on this person's access to professional training, employment, further employment, promotion or compensation or the basis for another decision in the world of work.

Sexual harassment may include the following:

- unwelcome sexual advances or requests for sexual favours, including those with an implicit expectation of benefits in return in relation to recruitment, promotion or professional advancement;
- creating, sharing or showing inappropriate written content, pictures, electronic messages, videos or pieces of music which by their nature can be interpreted to be sexual or obscene;
- unwelcome comments on a person's personal or physical features which by their nature can be interpreted to be sexual or obscene; and
- other nonverbal behaviours of a sexual or obscene nature such as unwanted physical contact, leering or inappropriate staring.

3. Reporting violations

3.1. How should alleged violations or other concerns be reported?

It is the responsibility of every single employee to contribute to the establishment of a secure and open working environment, where harassment, mobbing or discrimination. To ensure that this can happen, all employees can report any violations or suspected violation of this policy to their direct line manager or to the competent office for compliance issues by e-mail (compliance@pierermobility.com), phone, post or in a face-to-face conversation. In addition, employees can make an anonymously report of violations of this policy through the whistleblower system.

3.2. Confidentiality and protection against discrimination

We take our employees' concerns seriously and treat all reports under this policy as confidentially as possible. As part of the process of clarifying any allegation, it may be necessary to involve third parties as well, but this will only be done as part of a discretionary decision if it is absolutely necessary. The PIERER Mobility Group endeavours to ensure complete confidentiality by involving third parties.

No employee of the PIERER Mobility Group will suffer any disadvantage if, in good faith, he or she reports a violation within the meaning of this policy. In this regard, it is completely irrelevant whether the allegation of the violation is substantiated or not. On the other hand, any employee who takes or attempts to take retaliation against a colleague who, in good faith, has reported or intends to report an alleged violation of this policy will be subject to disciplinary action. Retaliation includes, for example, pressuring or threatening an employee so that they do not report the alleged violation. Any employee who is found to have made a report with malicious intent will be subject to disciplinary action.

3.3. Handling complaints

The Legal Department, with input from the Human Resources Department, will fully investigate all alleged violations of this policy that are reported. For each case that is reported, the Legal Department along with Human Resources Department will assemble an investigation team which may comprise employees from these two functions as well as other internal or external resources if necessary. All members of the investigation team are obliged to maintain confidentiality and may only share information in relation to complaints with third parties if this is absolutely necessary for clarifying the facts and circumstances. The investigation team may not include any people who are biased or for some other reason would not be able to apply themselves to the matter in a fair and impartial way. In countries in which there is a works council, the works council will take part in the investigation process in accordance with its legal mandate.
